43 possibly contaminated sites identified in county

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — With 43 sites identified as potentially contaminated, the Metro East may be the state's second-largest depository of contaminated waste.

According to the CERCLIS database list provided by the Illinois Environmental Agency, there are 43 potentially contaminated sites in Madison County and 42 in St. Clair County. Only the greater Chicago area, with nearly 400 sites on the CERCLIS list, has more.

According to Terry Ayers, IEPA manager for federal sites, inclusion on the CERCLIS list is the first step in a process that may lead to a site being listed on the federal EPA's Superfund National Priorities list.

"It's kind of a hodge-podge of potentially contaminated sites," Ayers said. "Some are listed because they have a permit for hazardous waste. Some are old dump sites that predate hazardous waste regulations. Some are big and some are small. They deal with all kinds of hazardous waste."

A preliminary assessment of the potential problem is made for each site on the list. Based on that, there may be an on-site inspection and a variety of other studies, Ayers said. He said about 10 percent of the site studies eventually prove to require some sort of cleanup or other remedial action and are placed on either the state or federal priorities list.

"But the sheer number in the Metro East would indicate a real problem," Ayers said. "Areas with old industry, like Sauget and East St. Louis, prove to be particularly prone to having old piles of hazardous waste."

In Madison County, the Tri-City area leads the way with 15 potentially contaminated sites — Nine in Granite City, three in Venice, two in Madison and one in Pontoon Beach. Madison also has a site, the Milan Landfill, in St. Clair County.

Eleven of the sites in Madison County are in around the petroleum refining complexes in the Roxana, Wood River and Hartford area.

Granite City contains the only site in Madison County on the U.S. EPA Superfund list — the Taracorp lead contamination — and a $25 million cleanup has been approved for that site. Granite City also has the former Jennison-Wright wood treatment plant in West Granite, which is on the state priority list.

The other Tri-City sites range from an old landfill at the U.S. Army Price Support Center to Illinois Power's Stallings Gas Turbine site to both American Steel and Granite City Steel. The steel companies each have haz-

Bonds approved for steel plant

Work could begin next month

GRANITE CITY — Construction on a proposed multi-million dollar steel processing plant in the area could begin as early as July as a result of approval of $9 million in bonds to help finance the project.

Mary Kane, executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority, announced at a public hearing Monday morning that $9,000,000 in tax-exempt revenue bonds will be issued to help finance the proposed Robinson Steel Co. project.

The East Chicago, Ind., firm plans to build a 100,000-square-foot plant near Old Slough Road on Tri-City Regional Port District property.

The facility will be constructed to allow for expansion of up to twice that size in the future, Jennifer Minor of Robinson Steel said.

Vice President and General Manager Paul Labriola of Robinson said the Metro-East location was chosen due to the accessibility of raw material and transportation systems.

"This area offers us several strategic advantages, including proximity to mills and easy access to truck, rail and barge routes," he said.

Kane said the proceeds of the bonds will aid in the construction of a facility, including a continuous cold reduction line, two cranes and office space.

According to Minor, the facility is expected to initially employ 30 to 40 people and have a production capacity in excess of 240,000 tons per year.

Tri-City Port District general manager Boh Wydra said the deal to locate on Port District property is not yet complete and hinges on approval of the financing.

"It appears (the financing) is going to come through ... and we should have quite a bit of construction going on here soon," Wydra said. He added that a number of improvements to the port facility will be taking place at the same time the Robinson construction is scheduled.

Construction on the Robinson plant could begin as early as mid-to-late July, Minor said. She added that the plant

Medicare adjustment plan worries doctors

By Angie Cairns
Staff writer

A proposal to adjust Medicare fees paid to doctors has some physicians in Madison and St. Clair counties uneasy.

"We're all a little bit leery of what comes from Medicare because it comes from Washington," said Dr. Mark Schmelzel, a general and vascular surgeon in Belleville and the president of the St. Clair County Medical Society.

Congress first proposed the Medicare adjustment in 1989, saying that many general practitioners were being undervalued in their repayments while some specialists were being overvalued.

The new schedule, therefore, will decrease fees reimbursed to some specialists while increasing fees given to family physicians and general practitioners.

The final proposal is set to be phased in between January 1992 through 1996, according to a June 17 article in American Medical News.

Congress is taking comments about the changes until Aug. 5. A final proposal will be drafted in October and implemented Jan. 1, the article says. The change is expected to save a total of $2 billion.

The fee schedule is based on a "relative value scale," said Dr. Patrick Zimmerman, a general physician in Collinsville. The scale is meant to average in various factors to determine repayment.

Such factors include the complexity and geographic location of a procedure. For anesthesiologists, this isn't encouraging news. They will no longer be able to use the length of time of a procedure as a factor of payment, according to the government's summary of the proposed changes.

Because some doctors will be paid less by Medicare, patients may have to pick up the extra bill, reports have projected. While repayments to some specialists decrease, out-of-pocket costs for patients will more than likely increase.

There are a few doctors in Madison and St. Clair counties, however, who accept what is called Medicare assignments, which would protect some patients.

Doctors who take Medicare assignments do not charge their patients the extra per cent that Medicare will not cover.

Other offices accept Medicare assignments on a case-by-case basis, depending on an individual patient's financial situation, Schmelzel said.

Physicians can also expect to see some reimbursements for high-volume procedures substantially decrease, which again could mean higher out-of-pocket costs for patients.

According to the American Medical News article, a repayment for a coronary artery bypass will go down to $1,926 by 1996 as opposed to $3,167 in 1991. Physicians who now receive $1,342 for the removal of cataracts will only receive $832 in 1996. And the repayment for a total hip joint replacement that gives doctors $2,111 will only give them $1,486 in 1996.

While not every physician believes the changes are a good idea, Schmelzel feels they have some validity.

Because of a shortage in primary physicians, the increase in Medicare fees to these areas may draw more students into the field, Schmelzel said.

Philosophically it makes some sense," he said of the changes.

Although Schmelzel is one physician who will see his repayment fees increase, he does not expect his income to be affected.

While the changes for doctors seem broad, they are not meant to substantially increase or decrease a physician's income, Zimmerman said.

"I may be a little bit prejudiced, but I think the overall goal is to make repayment a little more equitable," Zimmerman said.

"This isn't going to make me have the same income as a heart surgeon ... but they've had more training than I have, too," he said.

One doctor, who declined to be identified, labeled the proposal as a "smoke screen" to allow the government to get away with less funding for Medicare, which he said will result in less-than-adequate service for elderly Americans.

Schmelzel agrees that not all adjustments to Medicare since its start in 1965 have been a good idea.

Zimmerman also agreed that Medicare hasn't always made the best decisions.

"Medicare is always looking to cut costs," Zimmerman said. "I'm sure this is another way of doing it. I think some of the cuts they have made (in the past) have been harmful and will continue to be harmful," he said.

Medicare changes

Following is the proposed Medicare fee reimbursement schedule for some physicians. Example: A family practitioner can expect in 1996 to be paid approximately 17 percent more than he now receives; a cardiologist 8 percent less. Rate changes will be phased in between from '92 to '96.

Many seniors paying for free benefits

By Angie Cairns
Staff writer

Illinois has one of the highest rates of eligible low-income seniors who are paying for Medicare benefits they should be receiving for free, a published report said.

According to an advocacy group called Families USA, an estimated 102,415 of 172,944 Illinois Medicare recipients are eligible for the Medicaid buy-in program.

The program was implemented by Congress in 1989 to help low-income seniors by covering their out-of-pocket Medicare costs, said Karl Piepenburg, a spokesman from the Illinois Department of Public Aid in Springfield.

Less than half of the 4 million eligible seniors nationwide have applied to receive the coverage, a report said.

The buy-in makes it possible for Medicaid to pay the yearly premiums and deductibles for low-income Medicare beneficiaries, Piepenburg said.

To be eligible for the buy-in, a Medicare recipient's income must fall 90 percent below the national poverty level, Piepenburg said.

For a single person, these figures are $6,620 a year with less than $4,000 in assets. For a couple, the figures are $8,880 a year with less than $6,000 in assets.

When the program was first started in 1989, the qualifying income figures had to fall 85 percent below the poverty level. In 1993, that number will go up from the current 90 percent to 110 percent, and in 1995, it will increase to 120 percent, Piepenburg said.

Once a person qualifies for the free benefits, he or she will only receive them if they fill out the application form, Piepenburg said.

Families USA charges that the government has neglected to properly tell Medicare recipients about the benefits and how to get them.

O'Donnell facing foreclosure on home

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The Resolution Trust Co. filed a complaint Thursday to foreclose on the home of the late Frank O'Donnell and his wife, Joyce.

The RTC, a federal agency, is conservator of Germania Bank. According to the complaint, no payments have not been made on the property at 100 Powder Mill Road in 10 months. The mortgage on the home was $100,000.

As of June 15, more than $113,000 in principal and interest payments was owed, the com-

Attorney Donald L. Smith, who filed the complaint for the RTC, said he has "hundreds" of other properties from the O'Donnell estate to dispose of, but he could not disclose them.

Frank O'Donnell Sr., a Belleville real estate developer, was found dead at the Quality Inn in Collinsville in November. Although his death was thought to be due to a heart attack, a later autopsy revealed a lethal overdose of barbiturates in his system.

O'Donnell had filed for bankruptcy in March 1990. That case was closed in March.

70 seek 911 county job

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County 911 Emergency Telephone System is not far from having a coordinator. Between 70 and 80 persons applied for the job after it was advertised last month, according to Jim Monday, county administrator. The number of applicants is about what was expected, Monday said.

Collinsville Assistant Police Chief John Swindle, who serves on the 911 board, said that the applicants had been screened down to a handful. Swindle said he believed those candidates had been interviewed and that a coordinator would be hired soon.

"After talking to Norm Forshee (St. Clair County 911 coordinator) we know that you can never have somebody on board too soon," Swindle said.

Swindle said the sooner a coordinator is hired the sooner that person can become familiar with the equipment, with the various Public Service Answering Points (PSAP) throughout the county and prepare for the equipment testing stage. Testing of the equipment is slated for October.

Local reservist marches in national victory parade

A U.S. Army Reservist from Granite City marched down Washington's Constitution Avenue June 8 as part of the national victory parade for the Persian Gulf war.

Spec. James M. Richardson was part of a special 197-person formation representing Army Reservists called to active duty from units in the 5th U.S. Army. Those reserve units, located in Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, supplied more than 12,000 troops for Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm.

All the 5th Army marchers served on active duty during the Persian Gulf conflict. Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of troops in the Persian Gulf, led the procession. An estimated 10,000 soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines marched past a presidential reviewing stand. Some 1.4 million spectators lined the parade route.

Richardson, 19, a member of the 936th Maintenance Company in Wood River, was called to active duty in December 1990. He served in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Iraq during his six-month tour of duty.

He graduated from Granite City Senior High School in 1989 and is a student at Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville.

Weeds, board post targeted

VENICE — Second Ward Alderman John Henry Williams complained of high weeds harboring snakes and rats behind his church at 1349 Klein St. during a recent Venice City Council meeting.

"We build a beautiful half-mile lion-dollar church building and we've got that," he said. Williams blamed the Madison County Housing Authority and said, "I think we should put some pressure on those people."

"Have they ever refused to cut the weeds?" Mayor Tyrone Echols asked.

"No. But I shouldn't have to be calling them and telling them to do it," Williams replied.

When the weeds are cut, 3rd Ward Alderman George Lewis said, the housing authority could spray the area to eliminate new growth. "They've got something that'll kill anything on the face of the earth," he added.

"We need someone from Venice on the Madison County Housing Authority board," said Williams.

He asked that a letter be sent to County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer asking that the "next appointment on the Housing Authority board come from Venice, Ill."

Sending the recommendation to Hagnauer was approved by the council.

In other business, approval of a permit to allow a mobile home to be situated in the 500 block of Meredocia Street, with wheels and axles removed, was withheld until details on the application can be clarified.

A resolution was adopted allocating $70,000 in motor fuel tax funds to maintain eligible streets during calendar year 1991.

Expenses were approved for City Treasurer J. Alan Gardner Sr. to attend the Illinois Municipal League Treasurers Association meeting June 23-25 in Alton.

New state school plan gets business' support

Business organizations are giving top grades to a new state school plan that emphasizes how much students learn.

Business groups have complained in recent years that employers are getting high school graduates who lack basic skills, and they want something done about it.

Legislation sought by the State Board of Education may hold some of the answers, according to the Illinois Retail Merchants Association and the Illinois Farm Bureau, all of whom are among the influential groups helping lobby for the bill.

The potentially controversial school bill has moved through the House and is now before the Senate. The bill contains provisions to allow the state board to remove local board members or take over operation of the district if students fail to show improvement.

The state board's current regulations focus on such items as whether schools offer required courses and hold classes a minimum number of days.

Under the proposed new system each school will be required to set goals for student academic performance and overall school improvement. Starting with the 1992-1993 school year, schools that do not meet minimum standards will be placed on an "academic watch list."

Rates of attendance, dropout, expulsion and graduation will also be monitored by the state under the new plan.

Suit seeks condemnation order for Metro-Link land purchase

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The Southwestern Illinois Development Authority has asked a St. Clair County judge to condemn under eminent domain five parcels of East St. Louis property to make way for the Metro-Link light rail system.

Two complaints were filed Thursday against Charles Vollman of Vollman Advertising in Collinsville, and one each against George and Jessie Gallo-way of East St. Louis, Donald Cross (with St. Clair County as trustee), and E. J. Sieron.

None of the property owners could be reached for comment. Mary Kane, executive director of SWIDA, said her agency had signed a contract in April to help the Bi-State Development Agency in any way it could to build Metro-Link, a Bi-State-sponsored project. Bi-State had tried for six months to negotiate a settlement price with the property owners, Kane said, but no agreement was reached.

"All the property has been

Kane noted that the project "would not have occurred without the assistance of Granite City, who helped raise capital" for the project.

Economic Development Director Alan Orthals said the city used approximately $1.8 million of its industrial revenue bonding and the offers were based on that," she said. "This really is a reflection of a total breakdown in negotiations."

Bi-State is to build two light rail stations in East St. Louis — one on the riverfront and a second at Fifth and Missouri Avenue.

capacity for 1991 to SWIDA to help make the deal.

He said the action does not obligate the city to the repayment of the bonds in any manner, but rather allows Robinson to finance the project through tax-exempt bonds, which have a substantially lower interest rate than would otherwise have been possible.

According to a police report, a car driven by Paul R. Wingerter, 24, of the Alton address, was southbound on Illinois 3 when a car driven by James pulled into the intersection from the U.S. Army Melvin Price Support Center. ## State to assume some duties of county child support office

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The child support collection program in St. Clair County was saved last week by an agreement with the Illinois Department of Public Aid.

Circuit Clerk C. Barney Metz said his office will keep all personnel, but the non-staff items have been cut drastically.

Madison County, however, has not been so lucky, said Michael Vrabec, supervisor of the child support division in Madison County.

"The state wants us to continue processing, but they want to handle the enforcement," he said. "It doesn't make any sense to me. It's ridiculous."

Madison County has been asked to reduce its staff by one, but Vrabec said the caseload has increased each year.

The circuit clerk's office has access to court records and filings that make enforcement easier, he said. The entire program could suffer if changes are made.

"I don't think they realize the impact this will have on the department," he said. "They'll be able to enforce the payments, but a lot of functions will cease."

Metz also emphasized the important link for child support collections between his office, the state's attorney and the judges.

State's Attorney Robert Haida said the threat of a change in the way collections were done would have had an indirect effect on his office.

"We have such a good system going now," he said. "With this change, I don't think our system would work as well because we work in great detail with the circuit clerk's office."

Metz said he had sought $21,000 in non-staff items, but was awarded only $7,000. Despite the cut, he said he is very happy his staff was left intact.

"We're saving the jobs and lives of the staff," he said. "I'm just happy about it."

He said he'll take the cuts as they come and see how far they go. He has invited the new Public Aid director to visit the office when the state's situation has eased.

Each county collects about $3 million a year in child support on annual budgets averaging $160,000.

"I've been involved with this since 1980 and I've seen a lot of strides toward the positive," Vrabec said. "Now it seems like they want to go backward."

Wolf participates in fitness day activities

State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, recently participated in the seventh annual Legislators' Fitness Day held in the State Capitol, Springfield.

Legislators and their staff members were given a battery of health assessment tests. The tests included height-weight, blood pressure, grip strength, reaction time, cholesterol levels, body composition, lung capacity, step test, and flexibility.

Following the testing, they received an assessment print-out and were offered advice on how to improve personal fitness.

The tests were sponsored by the Illinois Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance and the Governor's Council for Health and Fitness.

SIUE officials to seek funds for stadium for Olympic event

EDWARDSVILLE — Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville officials said they will take a shot next year at state funding for a combination track and soccer stadium that could be used for a U.S. Olympic Festival.

Administrators are studying plans for a stadium with about 3,000 permanent seats, said James Buck, SIUE's vice president for development and public affairs.

Up to an additional 12,000 temporary seats would have to be installed if the university were to serve as host of the track-and-field events at the Olympic Festival to be held in St. Louis in 1994, he said.

Officials haven't determined the exact cost of the stadium, but state Sen. Sam Vadala, D-Edwardsville, said it could cost $5 million.

Hastings and Chivetta Architects Inc. of St. Louis has donated preliminary plans for the stadium, Buck said.

"I think we'll put together our plans this summer and take the opportunity to get some money from the state," Buck said.

Vadala said the odds are better for state funding next year than this year because of the state's current fiscal problems. He didn't introduce any bills this year seeking stadium money.

"It can't look any worse than it does this year," Vadala said. "If we can make a good case for it, I think we can bring in some money."

The festival is held annually except during Olympic years to help prepare American amateur athletes for Olympic competition. Thousands of athletes will attend to compete in 37 sporting events.

Lou Ann Pfeiffer, a spokeswoman for the Metro-St. Louis Festival Organizing Committee, said definite sites have not been picked for any events.

"We're still in the research phase, and we haven't set a timetable for picking definite facilities," Pfeiffer said.

The Great River Road between Alton and Grafton has also been designated as the tentative site for the bicycling time trials.

John McIntyre, economic development director for the Greater Alton/Twin Rivers Growth Association, said the festival could pump $5 million into the River Bend economy.

The figure could decrease if SIUE doesn't get the track stadium, but McIntyre said festival spectators are likely to stay at area motels.

AFCC keeps name

The Air Force announced Friday that the Air Force Communications Command, headquartered at Scott Air Force Base near Belleville, will keep its name instead of changing it to an agency as was previously announced.

"We're very happy about that," said Col. Wayne Corbett, director of public affairs for the AFCC.

The Air Force had originally announced in February the command would become an agency but has since re-evaluated the situation, Corbett said.

The AFCC remains one of the smaller commands compared to the Military Airflight Command, also headquartered at Scott AFB, Corbett said.

Even when the Air Force considered the change, Corbett said the AFCC would continue doing its job.

The AFCC handles Air Force communications and computer hardware and software systems.

arduous waste permits.

In St. Clair County, 16 of the potentially contaminated sites are in Sauget, with the majority of those in and around the Dead Creek sites that are on the state priority list. Cahokia also has one site connected with Dead Creek.

Other sites in St. Clair County include 12 in East St. Louis, six in Belleville and two in Dupu. None of the St. Clair County sites are on the U.S. EPA's priority list.

Statewide, Ayers said, unless a site is on the federal list there is little hope for anything happening any time soon.

Even after a problem is verified, only a small percentage of the sites will be eligible for federal funds," Ayers said. "The

Quinn

So Quinn said he is making sure that banks and savings-and-loans that receive state deposits are reinvesting them into the community. Under his plan, Quinn said, a lot more banks and savings-and-loans are getting state deposits. But, he said, they are agreeing to a higher deposit-to-loan ratio in order to keep them.

When I'm talking about renewing a deposit of $1, $2, $5 or $10 million, I'm in a position to ask banks tough questions about what they are doing to benefit the local community," Quinn said. "I don't want banks putting the money into a vault and looking at it. I want it out, doing good for the community."

"I want the banks to be on the lookout for entrepreneurs, for people with an idea for a business that will employ 10, 20, 100 people. I want banks to be looking at new, future growth industries like recycling. And I want banks to help working people buy homes, appliances, furniture."

Quinn said he already has a deposit agreement with a group of financial institutions in St. Clair County and is negotiating a similar agreement with a group of institutions in Madison County.

"From Dupu to Alton, I want everyone who wants to own a home to be able to borrow the money to buy one," Quinn said. "People who own homes have a stake in the community. Studies done at Washington University (in St. Louis) show that people with a stake in the community tend to vote, participate in community activities, work with the schools. When the community, it gives them a whole different attitude toward life."

Among the new programs, he has pushed, Quinn said, he is most proud of the bill that is now before the governor that creates Future Education Accounts. Under that plan, he said, every Illinois citizen can contribute money to a state fund, administered by the state treasurer, for each of his or her children. As long as the citizen lives up to the agreement, when the child is old enough and if the child meets the admission requirements, the child is guaranteed to be able to attend a state university.

"This will allow more and more kids to go to college," Quinn said. "If we are going to compete with Japan and Germany, we have to have that kind of culture. We have to have security and the thrust that will allow us to think toward the future."

Another program Quinn has pushed is the Illinois Public Treasurer's Investment Pool, which allows local governments to pool their money with the state for investment purposes. Funds deposited in the IPTIP are completely liquid and can be withdrawn without penalty at any time. At the same time, Quinn said, the IPTIP has consistently paid a higher daily interest rate than the 30-day CD (certificate of deposit) rate.

Madison County has been a part of IPTIP since March, according to Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus. Shimkus said one of the IPTIP's advantages is the ability to have state-collected revenue, such as income, sales and motor fuel taxes, deposited directly into the IPTIP, gaining several more days interest on the funds.

Quinn said, "Every dime earned through IPTIP is further protection against higher property taxes."

Quinn said other successes so far include the formation of the Metro East Housing Group for affordable housing and the formation of a low-interest loan fund to help medical and pharmaceutical companies that are suffering because of slow payment by the state and federal governments.

The biggest defeat so far, Quinn said, was the defeat of a would limit fees, such as checking account charges, charged to consumers by banks. "We'll come back with that next year," Quinn said.

Victim witness specialist to speak

Debi Jellen, a victim witness specialist, will be the guest speaker tonight at the monthly meeting of the Gateway Business and Professional Women's Club. The meeting will be at 6:45 p.m. at Brenda's Restaurant at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Old Alton Road.

Jellen, who works for the Madison County State's Attorney's Office, is a graduate of Southern Illinois University, where she received a bachelor's degree in social work.

Allen was formerly employed by the Oasis Women's Center in Alton, as a resident night manager and then as a legal advocate. As a legal advocate she provided court advocacy and counseling for victims of domestic violence.

She is still providing court advocacy, information, counseling, referrals and assistance for these victims, but now in a broader scope.

All working women in the area are invited to attend, according to Ollie Derr, BPW president. She said in arranging the program the club is following BPW's national program guideline, which focuses on "Abuse of Women Against Women."

Reservations can be made by calling 677-8251, and the cost of the dinner is $8.

Snags threaten 911 system plans in St. Clair County

By Liz Oquirin
Staff writer

St. Clair County's emergency telephone service has run into a few snags since testing of some of the county's 13 public safety answering points began earlier this month, said Norman Forshee, the county's 911 coordinator.

"Data wise, we're finding a significant number of errors in the routing of information within the (Illinois) Bell system," Forshee said.

The Illinois Bell computers have customers' names and addresses in their data bases. This information will be used by the 911 telecommunicators at the answering points throughout the county when the system begins operation in August.

Forshee said the computer problems had the potential to delay the August date to begin operating, but he is in daily contact with Illinois Bell representatives who are working on the problems.

Charlene Davis, Illinois Bell 911 coordinator, said the Illinois Commerce Commission will allow only a 1-percent margin of error in the county's data base before it can begin 911 service.

Ron Bloom, senior 911 manager for Illinois Bell attending the county's June 911 meeting Wednesday.

"We're working on the testing procedure," Bloom told the 911 Board. "It's frustrating at times, but this is the time (before the system goes into operation) to find things that are wrong in the system."

The problem with the data is that it's a complex system involving a number of data bases," Bloom added.

Bloom said Illinois Bell wants to make sure the system operates correctly when it goes into service in August.

"Illinois Bell is in this for the long term, and we'll be here to insure it's a quality system," Bloom added.

Forshee said the 911 system is being tested by emergency personnel who call a special three-digit number, not 911.

Sometimes when a call comes in, it shows no address or goes to the wrong answering point, Forshee said.

All of the answering points in the county have been or are being tested. Lebanon and East St. Louis still have construction that needs to be completed by August, Forshee said.

The special devices for the hearing impaired that the county purchased for the 911 system have been tested and do work correctly, Forshee added.

"We tested it out with a lady in Fairview Heights, and it worked fine," Forshee said.

Triplets win 10th straight!

Reeves turns in gutty performance against East Side

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

EAST ST. LOUIS — Ryan Reeves picked a good time to register the first complete game of his career.

The righthander, used in an emergency role by manager Ralph Burnett, went the distance and beat East St. Louis 6-5 on Saturday at Jones Park. Reeves scattered seven hits as Granite City Post 113 won its 10th straight game.

"We were a little short-handed in the pitching department after Drake (Marshall) went nearly four innings in relief against Edwardsville (last Thursday)," Burnett said. "He was actually scheduled to pitch this game, but I decided to go with Ryan."

But Reeves was making his first mound appearance since June 6 (in relief against Cahokia).

"It's been a while since I've had a chance to pitch," Reeves said. "My arm started getting tired and the ball got real heavy, especially in the sixth and seventh innings, but I wanted that complete game."

Reeves relied on his curve ball to stifle the East St. Louis hitters.

"I just didn't have any zip on my fastball," he said. "It was hurting my elbow when I tried to throw it, but the curve ball bailed me out. Their hitters were looking for the fastball, but the curve threw their timing off."

"I wasn't worried about Ryan running out of gas," Burnett said. "With the exception of the sixth inning, he did an excellent job against a very good team."

Trailing 6-2, East St. Louis scored three times in the sixth. An error, a double steal and an infield single by Orlando Cannon spurred the comeback. But Reeves regained his composure and set the side down in order in the seventh.

"I really thought we had them on the ropes," East St. Louis manager Tyrin Suggs said. "Our guys were starting to see his curve ball much better in the late innings, but coming from behind made things tough on us. It took away our running game. We couldn't gamble on the bases."

Centerfielder Kevin Brown also felt the affects of playing from behind.

"I was anxious to make contact because we needed runs," he said. "I kept dropping my shoulder because I wanted to drive the ball into the gaps. We were all feeling the pressure up there."

"But Granite City has some smart pitchers. They do an excellent job of mixing up their pitches. The curve ball gave us a lot of problems today. We never made solid contact until the late innings, but then we ran out of at bats."

The Triplets (10-1 in District 22 play) grabbed a 3-0 lead in the second inning on Bill Van Buren's run-scoring triple and Jeff Stephens RBI single. But East St. Louis (4-2) scored twice in the bottom of the second.

Brett Frierson tripled in a run and Demond Nettles brought home another run with a ground ball to second base. Jerry Creer's hot smash up the middle might have tied up the game, but shortstop Rich Schardan's RYAN REEVES went the distance and handcuffed East St. Louis 6-5 on Saturday at Jones Park. Reeves, making his first mound appearance since June 6, scattered seven hits and struck out seven.

diving stop, silenced the rally. "That play saved a run," Burnett said. "But that's Richie's natural position. Creer likes going up the middle and Richie displayed a quick reaction on that ball." "Granite City is a great team," Suggs said. "There very sound fundamentally. You've got to match them play for play, because they don't make mental mistakes." The Triplets picked up an insurance run in the third before Brian Harshany's two-run double made the score 6-2 in the fourth. "Their third-place hitter (Harshany) has killed us both times we've played them," Brown said. "He had a big hit that broke open our first game (a 3-0 loss on June 13)."

The victory also gives Granite City a sweep of the season series, but Burnett knows he hasn't seen the last of East St. Louis.

"We'll meet these guys again in the playoffs," Burnett said. "I'm happy we beat them twice in the regular season, but I'm also glad we won't see them for a while. They've got a very good team, and if you give them any extra outs, they'll make you pay for it."

Meanwhile, Suggs hopes to shore up some of his weaknesses by that time.

"I hate to lose, but I'm sure we've learned something from our games with Granite City," Suggs said. "Our guys were really up for this game. They had the confidence to win, but we fell into a hole early."

"We'll get another shot at these guys, and we'll be a better team by then. For now, we just have to put this game behind us and concentrate on the rest of the season."

"I still feel we're the better team," Brown said. "But Granite City is proving us wrong at the moment. There's still a long way to go, however. We've got the rest of the season to better ourselves. We'll have a chance to even the score in the playoffs."

NOTES: Granite City hosts Belleville tonight in a battle of first-place clubs. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. at Varsity Field. The Triplets then have 11 days off before returning to action on July 9 at Wood River.

Cards could add to Cubs woes

Summer's here and the time is right. But is everything right?

It's not that the Cardinals were in contention more than the defending National League champion Cincinnati Reds. Nope, it's that the Cubs were just about where they should be last place.

The pick by so many to take the NL East was riding the el to hell, George Bell was batting sixth (sixth), as the Cubs had lost nine in a row and were a game away from the cellar.

Summer couldn't be finer. Playing the Pirates now, the Cubs could be in the throes of the Cardinals blow into to Chicago Friday, and buried by the time they leave Sunday.

Think Don Zimmer would return if the Tribune Co. begged? He'd probably work one of their printing presses first. There's nothing like an experienced manager with a veteran lineup, such as Jim Essian, to lift a team out of last place.

The Cubs are crying. The Cardinals have a chance to knock them completely out of the race this weekend. There's no way Chicago would make up a double-digit debt at the All-Star break.

The Cardinals always seem to play well at Wrigley, where they first set the tone for the season by taking two of three from Chicago.

The Cardinals certainly get a lift from Cardinals' fans who regularly storm Wrigley in June. It's a trip every Cardinals' backer should make at least once. And if you go once, odds are you will return. It's a gas.

If you're on the fence about taking off work Friday and heading north, fall off and tell the boss your throat is sore.

Jack Farmer

Then go scream at Wrigley. Speaking of screaming, the Dodgers barely are in shouting distance of the rest of the NL West. It's probably gonna take a miracle to catch them because the second-best team in that division—San Francisco—was 14 games out Tuesday. But the Giants will make a run. There's too many stars on that team: Willie McGee, Will Clark, Kevin Mitchell and Co. will make a charge.

At least the Giants, unlike the Cubs, have a manager. All San Francisco needs is a stopper like Ramon Martinez. The Dodgers won't have an extended losing streak as long as he stays healthy.

Vince Coleman's leg still is hurting in New York. But every baseball writer's favorite interview is scheduled to come off the disabled list next week to resume defense of his stolen base title.

Last week, Vince said he is "the greatest base-stealer in the world." Well, according to the world's statistics, Coleman finally has some competition.

Through Monday, Montreal's Marquis Grissom was the leading thief with 34. Two others were tied with Coleman at 33: Delino DeShields of Montreal and Otis Nixon of Atlanta.

It will be interesting to see how Coleman handles the heat. He's really never been pressed in winning his six consecutive stolen base titles.

Trailing that pack by a good margin, but nonetheless among the leaders is Cardinals rookie Ray Lankford, who had 19 steals through Sunday.

It's a shame what's happening to Todd Worrell. One month ago, Worrell was fired up about getting in 40 major-league innings this season. Now, who knows?

Once the best closer in National League, Worrell is approaching the two-year mark of inactivity. Some pitchers just don't rebound from arm surgery. Worrell still is confident about returning, so I guess so should we. But it's sad to see Worrell—a great guy with all that talent—wasting away on the bench.

He should get a boost this week visiting with former Cardinals pitcher Danny Cox as the Phillies battle at Busch. Cox, who had similar surgery as Worrell, is 2-1 since returning last month after being out nearly two years.

By the way, the Cardinals won't sign Bobby Bonilla in this century. Hopefully they won't go to grass at Busch until they do sign him, or two or three sluggers like him.

When you're built for speed, stay on a fast track.

Slemmer leads double-A stars

By David Wilhelm
Staff writer

Dave Slemmer's high school career at Edwardsville ended June 7, but on Sunday, the shortstop took a walk down Memory Lane.

Playing his final game at the Edwardsville Sports Complex, Slemmer singled, doubled and tripled to spark Class AA to a 9-2 victory over Class A in the eighth annual Metro-East All-Star Game.

"I wanted to come in and do a good job in front of the home crowd," said Slemmer. "I was wanting something to remember my last game on this field."

"There was no pressure—finally, it was fun just to come out and meet everyone from the teams in the area. We got a lot of talking in over the last four innings."

Slemmer's Class AA teammates agreed: a fun day was had by all. "It was fun, real fun," said Belleville West's Kyle Luge, who contributed a run-scoring single in the sixth inning.

"Playing with a lot of people you play against is a different experience. Coach (Tom) Pike said to go out, relax and have fun. I wanted to do well, but I wanted to have fun, too. Playing with all these guys was an honor to me."

"Smiley" Owens made the most of his appearance in the game, making two stunning defensive plays in center field. "It felt good to play in an all-star game with different people," Owens said.

Slemmer

pie," said Owens. "It was great. I liked all the people I played with, especially Pile, (John) Droste and (Joe) Blasingim. The most spectacular play by Owens came in the sixth, when he sprinted into left-center and made a diving catch of what looked like a double off the bat of Valmeyer's Tom Schilling. "When you've got speed, you use it," said Owens. "In an all-star game, you have to do your best. Since it was my last game, I gave it all I've got."

Droste and Blasingim, both of Edwardsville, did their part to lift the Class AA team. Droste was 2 for 3 with two runs scored, and Blasingim was credited with the victory after he fanned seven in four innings.

"I hadn't pitched in three weeks, so I didn't know how I'd do," said Blasingim. "It was a fun game to pitch in because there was no pressure and you could relax. Every game we played this season, they all had pressure."

Blasingim, a prankster and designated joke-teller when pitching, made sure other players had fun, too.

"We were all in the dugout joking around and having a good time," Blasingim said. "Some people say we don't have fun (at Edwardsville), but we were in the dugout having the best time."

The only nick against Blasingim came in the fourth inning, when Valmeyer's Chris Voelker hit a long home run to right-center.

"When did that guy get drafted?" joked Blasingim. "If he didn't go in the first round, he should have. I think that guy was the best hitter I've ever seen."

It was one of the lone highlights for the Class A team. Its only other run came in the eighth, when Belleville East's Brad Cason—who played with Class A after some of its players didn't show up for the game—hit a sacrifice fly that scored pitched a hitless ninth.

Blasingim followed on the mound by Jerseyville's Andy Sauerwein and Droste. Pile, who managed the Class AA team, enjoyed the game, but was glad all the planning that went into it was behind him.

"It's hard from the standpoint that we were in the playoffs and state tournament, and that's when you have to start putting it together," said Pile. "It comes at a bad time for me—that's the strenuous part."

"The main thing is the kids had fun. A lot of people think that all Edwardsville does is play baseball and try to win, but we have a ball. We clown around and joke around as much or more than any other team."

"If one kid gets signed to a college (scholarship), that wouldn't have gotten signed, it's worth it. And if nobody gets signed, it's still worth it."

Several college and professional baseball scouts were at the game.

Class AA took a 2-0 lead in the first on a passed ball and an RBI fielder's choice by Edwardsville's J.J. Scerba. The lead increased to 4-0 in the fourth on an RBI double by Alton's K.C. Doucett and an RBI grounder by O'Fallon's Todd Wilkins.

After Voelker's homer cut the margin to 4-1, Mascoutah's Barry Burns hit a sacrifice fly for a 5-1 Class AA advantage.

Lugge's single in the sixth made it 6-1, and RBIs by Belleville West's Kurt Muskopf, Centralia's John Bannister and Edwardsville's Todd Klucker rounded out the scoring for the Class AA stars.

Zoysia worth the effort

By Terry Wilson

Zoysia, a durable turf that is tolerant to heat, drought and shade, makes a great lawn for the St. Louis area.

However, zoysia is the first to turn brown in the fall and the last to turn green in the spring. It is also quite invasive, potentially spreading beyond the bounds of the yard to other areas, including your neighbors'. Before you start, here are some facts on zoysia.

Zoysia is a warm season grass native to the Orient and Philippine Islands. Here are three species of zoysia, but Zoysia japonica is the species for our area. It is a low growing perennial grass that spreads by above ground stolons and shallow rhizomes. Zoysia grows best on good neutral (pH 5.5-7.0), well-drained soils, but it's slow to establish itself or fill in bare spots.

Zoysia can be planted by seeding or sodding. Seed is very expensive, and 2 pounds per 1,000 square feet is the recommended rate. Establishment is slow and weed competition can be severe in some cases. Sodding is the preferred approach and can be done by two different ways: by plugs or whole pieces layered like carpet. Plugging is preferred because of the low cost and ease of handling.

Soil preparation for a new lawn is very important. Tilling is the first step and you may need to mix some amendments such as expanded clay for better air space development and compost/peat moss depending on the soil texture.

Till to a depth of 4 to 6 inches. This will help to establish the After plugging, you should water enough to moisten the soil and either roll the area or use your foot to press the plug firmly into the ground. This will encourage good contact between the root system and the soil.

Next, apply more water and give the plug a good soaking. On a newly established lawn, water once per day to three times each week to keep the ryegrass seed and the plugs moist. The ryegrass should be up in seven days or less.

Plugging, late, in October or November, will not allow the root system to become established. The plugs could suffer from frost and soil heaving. Maintenance is fairly simple after the area is established. Apply 3 to 5 pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet in early June. Because zoysia is not a heavy feeder one application is plenty.

It takes patience to get zoysia established, but once done it is a joy for many years to come and makes a beautiful lawn providing dense sod, choking out weeds and resisting heavy foot traffic at the same time.

Terry Wilson is a horticulturist with the Missouri Botanical Garden.

When changing your established yard over to zoysia, you will need a plugger. A plugger is a tool you push into the ground for removing a plug of soil and grass the same size of the zoysia plugs. You need to put these plugs at the same 12-inch spacing as recommended for the new yard.

Garden's tile wins national award

A national tile award has been presented to the installers of the mosaic tile in the fountain courtyard of the Shoenberg Temperate House at the Missouri Botanical Garden.

St. Louis-based Shoenberg Tile Co., Inc. was named the winner in the New Commercial Construction category of the Spectrum '91 Awards Competition sponsored by the Ceramic Tile Distributors Association. The award was presented in May at the second annual International Tile Exposition in Miami Beach, Fla.

The mosaic fountain is patterned after a style of Moorish architecture dating back to eighth-century Spain. The design, made up of white, green, black, brown and two specially created shades of blue tiles, was conceived by Environmental Planning and Design, the Pittsburgh landscape architecture firm responsible for the master planning of the Garden. The Shoenberg

Temperate House, part of the Climatorn Complex. Two Williams Tile craftsmen spent 430 hours during more than 26 days placing thousands of the custom-made, one-by-two inch and two-by-two inch tiles into the intricate design.

The architect/designer of the Shoenberg Temperate House is Christner Partnership Inc. of Clayton. The tile was manufactured by Epco Inc. and distributed by Missouri Brick and Supply Co. of St. Louis.

Pupils collect $478 for dinosaur

The students at Maryville School collected $478.20 to share in the ownership of a full-size tyrannosaurus rex at the new St. Louis Science Center.

The 19-foot animated dinosaur will greet visitors to the new center at 5050 Oakland Ave. located near the McDonnell Planetarium. The center will open in November 1991.

Harriet Ward's fourth-grade class and Janis Patton's second-grade class contributed more than $100 each toward the Maryville School project.

The class members were treated to a pizza party for their efforts.

Paul Richter, a second-grade pupil, collected the most dimes for the "Dimes for Dinosaurs" program. Sarah Huber coordinated the project.

More than 165 area schools participating in the "Dimes for Dinosaurs."

Special recognition for the schools that participated was held June 5 at the science center. Paul Richter, second grade, and Amanda Needham fourth grade, represented Maryville School at the event.

Lake third-graders help pay for dino

Hundreds of cans were collected and Kool-Aid and cookies were sold by third-grade pupils of Pat Wirtjes at Lake Elementary School in their effort to make a donation toward the purchase of a large outdoor prehistoric tyrannosaurus rex.

The youngsters were responding to letters from the St. Louis Science Center that asked for help in getting the huge dinosaur model.

Many aspects of learning were covered during the project, Wirtjes said. In math, the money was counted, added and subtracted. The children also had purpose in measuring when they went outdoors with yardsticks to find the height and length of the giant dinosaurs.

Writing, reading and art also took place in a fun way as the students worked together in groups making posters, dinosaur booklets and reports on their fund-raising endeavors.

Several reports were read when Lake Principal Helen Schmissauer and Robin Millikin, PTA secretary, attended a special meeting in the classroom.

Elizabeth Pool was elected by her classmates to present the principal with $5.56 toward the purchase of the dinosaur.

Maybe. The Illinois Journals are looking for people who would like to be correspondents. We'll teach you the basics in an upcoming free seminar.

Correspondents work on an as-needed basis writing about anything from governmental meetings to sports events. Those interested in participating in the workshop should submit a typed letter that discusses why you are interested, any practical experience you have and when you would be available for work.

We'll choose workshop participants from your letters. We're not looking for Pulitzer Prize winners, just smart, conscientious people.

VICTORY IN THE GULF

A Special Collector's Edition Dedicated to the Fighting Men & Women of Desert Storm

On August 2, 1990, the army of Iraq invaded and conquered the neighboring oil-rich nation of Kuwait. On January 16, 1991, an air raid on the Iraqi capital of Baghdad signaled the beginning of Operation Desert Storm: the military campaign launched by an American-led coalition of forces to evict Iraq from the region it had so brutally acquired. Victory in the Gulf is a lavishly illustrated pictorial chronicle of that momentous and violent undertaking, from the first troops arriving in August to the final, grueling ground war that gave victory to the Allies.

In Victory in the Gulf you'll find:

- Scores of dramatic photographs of the war, many in vivid color
- Images of American and Allied soldiers during the ground war
- Insightful commentary on each image

In its compellingly visual presentation, Victory in the Gulf provides a gripping account of the most important war event in the post-Cold War era.

Available in the lobby of The Journals 1714 Deer Tracks Trail St. Louis, MO 63131

Gateway BPW installs Derr as leader

Ollie Derr, a lifelong resident of Granite City and a Shelter Insurance claims service representative, was installed as president of Gateway Business and Professional Women of Granite City at the spring banquet.

More than 30 members and guests attended the annual dinner party at Rusty's Restaurant in Edwardsville and heard Derr declare her theme for the coming year as "Together We Will Make a Radiant Bouquet" from the rose garden of BPW.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Judy Wiemann, past state membership chairman for the Illinois Business and Professional Women's Organization and a past president of BPW District 14 and the Edwardsville BPW Club.

Among the new president's relatives and personal guests for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton "Jug" Harrison, a brother and sister-in-law; Chris Warren, a cousin; and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Jackson, Ed Dubish, Margaret Eck, Verla Lindner, Nellie Bogosian, Donna Jones, Maxine Skinner, Norma Hillmer, Dorothy Hinson and co-workers, Diane Albi, Joan Krepps and Julie Freeman.

Guests from other Business and Professional Women's club included: Bille Hentze, District 14 treasurer and president of Fairview Heights BPW; Mary Ann Gould, president of Highland BPW; Shirley Coll and Fae Zeller, past presidents of Highland BPW; and Betty Hampton, Highland club vice president.

Special recognition was accorded Fae Zeller, who recently received an award naming her one of four "Outstanding Working Women of Illinois."

New Gateway Club officers installed with Derr for 1991-92, included:

Ruth Nicholas, secretary/treasurer; and Pat Anderson, vice president, who was represented at the ceremony by Juanita Williams.

Pins were exchanged by the retiring president, Shirley Rapoff, and the new president. In addressing the group, Derr said: "Life is like a big pie, for you are constantly sharing a part of your life with someone from the time of your birth. The thing to remember is to save a slice for you, to do something with life — just for you."

Derr announced her board of directors for the coming year. Board members are: Betty Nugent, finance; Juanita Williams, membership; Pat Anderson, program; Judy Puryear, legislation; and Shirley Rapoff, foundation.

The club's community service project will be participation in area festivities during the holidays, donating time and funds to the shelter for abused women and children and volunteer work at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the Belleville Area College Literacy Program.

Gateway Business and Professional Women also awarded a scholarship to a member and participates in both the state and national BPW Scholarship Program.

KMOX control room bedlam free

8C—Granite City Journal—Wednesday, June 26, 1991

Be warned; this may come as a major disappointment to you. I had a chance to sit in the KMOX-AM (1120) radio control room for a couple of hours recently, and if you expect me to tell you that behind the scenes there is bedlam, forget it.

If you've ever listened to KMOX—and who hasn't—chances are you've wondered how they deal with all the calls, the commercials, the need to keep the air full of conversation, the conflicting opinions. The answer seems to be: people who know what they are doing.

Now, I wasn't there during a sports call-in show, and there seems to be general agreement that sports fans tend to bring a degree of fanaticism to the proceedings. "The sports people want to make crazy trades," said one staff member, "Ozzie (Smith) and Pedro Guerrero to a player-to-be named later."

You can understand how that kind of thing might be unnerving. But, when the subjects are Bangladesh and how to keep your house clean, it seems that the callers—and the programs—are a little less frantic.

It seems to work something like this: a program producer works with the on-air talent to find the topics to be discussed and the guests to talk about them. The "board producer" is the person who sits in the control room and fields the calls from listeners, puts them on hold and, via a computer, lets the on-air people know approximately what the caller wants to talk about. And the on-air people decide when, and if, to talk to these folks.

Sound fairly simple? Well, it is I guess, providing you know what you're doing.

Board producer Jan Fox, who says she has been with the station for 20 years, appears to know what she is doing. "Good afternoon, Ann's open line," she says to the callers who want to ask questions, or make comments, to Ann Keefe's guest of the moment, a Marianist priest who is an expert on South Asia and its problems.

"This (topic) is a listening show rather than a participating show," she explains to a reporter surprised at the relative paucity of calls. That is reflected in the length at which the guest is allowed to discuss an individual question. There also is much back-and-forth between Keefe and the guest between calls.

When Bruce Bradley slides into a studio chair to join Keefe at the top of the hour, it signals a change of guest and topic. Don Aslet, who writes books about keeping your house clean efficiently, is a regular guest who is almost as polished on the air as the hosts.

Renee Sevier, the board producer for this program, says she has been with KMOX for 10 years. She fields the calls—a few more people want to talk about cleaning house than wanted to talk about Bangladesh—and keys information about the nature of the calls onto a screen where Bradley can see it and decide which call he and Keefe will take.

"They're both super prepared," Sevier says. "They change topics every hour. The listeners know the format."

In fact, some of the listeners know the format so well that they call to participate every day—some every hour, Sevier said. "Regulars" whose voices are recognized by the board producers get a special designation on the computer-screen. The hosts likely will opt not to put them on the air because, the producers said, listeners do not want to hear the same callers all the time.

Ian MacBryde is an independent video producer and former television executive.

'Postcards, 'Metropolitan' now on video

"Postcards From the Edge" (1990, RCA/Columbia, no list price): Oscar-nominee Meryl Streep portrays a child of Hollywood bouncing back from rehabilitation in this Mike Nichols comedy based on the novel by Carrie Fisher (who also wrote the script). Shirley MacLaine is hilarious as her show-biz mother.

"Metropolitan" (1990, RCA/Columbia, $89.95): Writer/director Whit Stillman won an Oscar nomination for his script and was named Best New Director by the New York Film Critics for this look at the debutante scene in New York City.

A non-socialite is drafted into the whirl of parties because of a "real escort shortage" and tries to figure out if this high life is for him.

ROYAL HAWAIIAN HOTEL welcomes Journal tourists in February.

Royal Hawaiian Hotel is stop on Journal tour

The Suburban Journals, in cooperation with Tenholder Travel, will offer a two-day stay at the luxurious Royal Hawaiian Hotel as part of its 14-day Hawaiian tour. The tour is planned for February 1992.

When the Royal Hawaiian Hotel opened in 1927 the Honolulu Star-Bulletin described it as "the first resort in America."

The hotel, which ushered in a new era of luxurious resort living had Waikiki Beach much to itself. Known as the "Pink Palace," it was built in the area used by Hawaiian kings and queens as their favorite summer playground.

The six-story structure is of a Spanish-Moorish style that was popular during the period, influenced by screen star Rudolph Valentino and his celluloid Arab exploits. It was originally built as a luxurious hotel for Matson Navigation Line passengers.

In those early days, guests would stay longer than they usually stay today. They would bring numerous steamer trunks, servants and even their Rolls Royces. With the stock market crash of 1929, the number of tourists dropped. Then came the war, and barbed wire was installed along Waikiki Beach. In 1942, the hotel was leased by the Navy as a rest and recreation center for the Pacific Fleet. In 1945, the hotel was given back to Matson, which reopened it to the public in 1947, after spending over $2 million on renovation. Sheraton bought the hotel from Matson in 1959 and added the Royal Tower Wing in 1960.

Having lived through the innumerable comings and goings of many of the world's great leaders and lovers, the Royal has held up remarkably well. If her walls could talk, they would undoubtedly maintain their discreet silence, and simply utter a sigh of satisfaction at being recognized as one of the world's truly great hotels.

The Royal is typical of the fine hotels included on the Journal Hawaiian tour. For information and a descriptive folder contact the tour coordinator at Tenholder Travel at 800-333-5816 or write to: The Tour Editor, P.O. Box 510177, St. Louis, Mo. 63151-1077.
